Corresponding with Employers

Job search correspondence—cover letters, thank you letters, acceptance letters, declining letters, etc.—usually receive a lot less attention from students than a resume. However, they are just as, if not more, important in your job search strategy. BBA Career Services recommends that ALL job search correspondence be typed in a block-style business letter format.

With today's technology, a majority of job search correspondence will be sent via email. You will occasionally still mail a cover letter, and when doing so you should use the same quality and color of paper you used for your resume. Whatever method you utilize, always use proper grammar, punctuation, and spelling. Just like your resume, make sure that your correspondence is a positive reflection of you.

Cover Letters

The type of correspondence most frequently utilized in the job search process is the cover letter. Cover letters serve as an introduction of yourself and your resume to the employer. A great cover letter should immediately catch the interest of the recruiter and encourage him/her to continue reading the resume.

An excellent cover letter is crucial for success in the job search process. It is difficult for an employer to think a candidate is qualified if a cover letter is filled with typographical errors, poor grammar, redundancy, and run-on sentences, or if it lacks focus and sincere interest.

Customize your cover letter for the specific company and job you are targeting. BBA Career Services does not recommend sending a mass-produced letter to a potential recruiter. They will most likely spot it immediately. To customize your letter, note the targeted position and how you heard about it. Show that you have researched the company and have a clear career objective in mind. Express why you are interested in the specific position. Make the connection between you (i.e., your skills, abilities, and experiences) and the job requirements.

Some common cover letter mistakes:

- Too lengthy
- Lacks passion, interest, and substance or are form letters (letter not tailored to the specific company/position)
- Prove to the reader that the job seeker has failed to make the connection between the job seeker and the employer
- Poorly written

Formatting tips:

- Text size should be 10-12 point font, use the same font type as used on your resume
- Cover letters should be no longer than one page (approximately 3-4 paragraphs)
- Block-style business letter format with all information left justified
- Save resumes and cover letters as PDFs when emailing to employers

Building the Cover Letter

Sections of the Cover Letter

Sender Information: Include your address at the top left of your letter. The date the letter is sent should appear next, below the sender's address information.

Recipient/Employer Information: The recipient's name should appear at the left margin, below the date and sender's information. Include his/her full name (first and last) spelled correctly, title, department/division, company name, and address. If you are uncertain about any of the above information, call the company to confirm.

Salutation: The salutation should be in business style, preferably "Dear Mr. or Ms. _____". It is not a good idea for you to address the employer by first name in a cover letter. If you cannot locate the contact name then use "Dear Recruiter" or "Dear Hiring Manager."

Introduction Paragraph: Use an opening line to catch the reader's attention, and avoid opening phrases like, "My name is Jill..." The introduction should identify the position which you are seeking, mention your education and graduation year, refer to how you learned of the organization and/or of the position, and illustrate that your skills match the qualifications. You are seeking to convince the recruiter that you are the ideal candidate for the position and will spend the rest of your letter showing, not telling, that you have these qualifications. Develop a thesis statement to transition into the body of the letter.

Body Paragraphs: The next section of your letter is the body or the core of your letter and should be 1-2 paragraphs. In the introduction, you made the initial connection between the job qualifications and your skill set. Now, you must prove that the claim you made in the first paragraph is actually true. Review the job description carefully and thoroughly. Tailor your cover letter to include the requirements that you fulfill and then note any other special things about yourself that may also be related to the position.

There are two basic formats for writing your body paragraphs:

1. In a Structured Approach, you will take the qualifications you mentioned in the introduction and, one by one, give an example, story, anecdote, or evidence illustrating your mastery of that skill. This approach follows a formulaic "claim-evidence" pattern. For example, if they list "excellent organizational skills" as a required qualification, then you should indicate how and/or what you did in a previous position or leadership role that exhibited that skill. For example, "While serving as VP for Corporate Outreach for Asian Business Student Association, I was able to successfully schedule guest speakers and manage logistics for an evening networking event in which approximately 100 Asian Business Student Association members and 10 employers participated. The evening was a great success."
2. A Fluid Approach uses a more fluid method by telling a story or two and extracting your evidence from the story. For instance, you could use one experience that illustrates both your leadership abilities and financial analysis skills. You might have one paragraph describing the incident and then another explaining why that incident is relevant.

You should avoid being too formulaic with your approach. Generally speaking, you want to strike a balance between structure and fluidity. However, there is no "right" way to structure your cover letter. BBA Career Services has several resources that can help you write your cover letter, but make sure to adapt sample letters to your own needs and style.

Closing Paragraph: Reiterate your interest in the position/company. Refer back to one special attribute about yourself that qualifies you for the job and makes you stand out. Initiate the next step for the reader. If appropriate, indicate when you will follow up with the reader on the status of your application (note: a majority of positions posted in OCR do not contain specific contact information, and you will not be able to follow-up with the employer). Let the reader know where and when you can be reached or let them know when you will be in touch with them. Close with a thank you.

Valediction/Close: If you are sending a word document as your cover letter, you will need to "sign" the document. If you have an electronic signature, then use that. If not, find a different appropriate font to use as a signature. Also, include your typed name below the signature line and continue the same steps as a hard copy typed letter in closing. If you are submitting paper copies of your cover letter and resume, specify which documents are attached or simply note "Enclosure." This tells the reader to look for additional documents and will remind them to keep the documents together.

Full-Block Format

Choose either a traditional block or resume header (both are acceptable for cover letters)

TRADITIONAL BLOCK HEADER:

Heading: (DO NOT include your name)

Your Address

City, State Zip Code

Date of Letter

Mr./Ms. First & Last Name

Recruiter's Title

Department Name

Organization Name

Street Address

City, State Zip code

RESUME HEADER (matches your resume):

LAWRENCE (LARRY) LONGHORN

Mr. Keith Winters
Recruitment Manager
ABC Real Estate
1357 West Lucas St.
Austin, TX 78712

Dear Mr. Winters:

Formatting Tips:

- Font type should match your resume and font size should be 10-12 point
- Keep to 1 page
- All information should be left justified in a block-style business letter format as shown

Dear Mr./Ms./Dr. Last Name Only: (use full name if pronoun is uncertain)

Introduction (1st paragraph):

Refer to how you learned about the employer or the job and name-drop if possible (e.g., previous conversation, meeting, correspondence, or job posting). Explain why you are writing and include your degree, major, and year in school or graduation date. Lay down the foundation for your letter, clearly stating why you are qualified and previewing the points you will elaborate on in the following paragraphs. This paragraph ends with a thesis statement of some kind.

Body (approximately 1 - 2 paragraphs):

This is the core of your letter. Highlight and explain relevant accomplishments (e.g., achievements, skills, experiences, attributes, etc.). Make the connection between you (and your qualifications) and the requirements of the job, tying it in with the introduction.

(3rd paragraph, if necessary):

You can highlight one special skill or experience that may set you apart from other candidate. State why you are interested in working for this employer and your interest in this type of work. You could break the above information into multiple paragraphs for easier readability.

Closing Paragraph (last paragraph):

Thank the recipient, restate your interest, state the action you expect from the recipient (e.g., an interview, an application, a phone call), reiterate a strength (why you should be selected), and indicate your next plan of action and/or offer a specific date of expected action. Provide contact information for employer questions or to reach you for an interview. If you indicate a course of action, you MUST follow through.

Sincerely,

Your Signature (handwritten)

Only use "Recruiting Manager" or "Hiring Manager" if you cannot locate the contact name.

Dear Recruiting Manager:

A recent article in the Austin Business Journal naming ABC Real Estate as one of the top ten firms in the local market really caught my attention. I am impressed by the success of your organization, as well as the CEO's commitment to giving back to the local community. I am currently a student at The University of Texas at Austin, pursuing a degree in management. I plan to graduate May 20XX.

Like your CEO, I am committed to giving back to my community. In my hometown, I started an annual charity chili cook-off which has raised $40,000 in the past three years for the Midland Boys and Girls Club. This money has helped pay for sports equipment for children in the after-school program. Although I now live in Austin, I continue to be involved with the charity cook-off and other activities through the Boys and Girls Club.

In addition to pursuing my management degree, I work as a leasing assistant at the apartment complex where I live. I meet with potential residents to show our property and explain the leasing agreement. I also handle maintenance requests and ensure that they are completed in a timely manner. This experience has sparked my interest in a career in property management and real estate.

I believe my values and work ethic make me a great match for opportunities at ABC Real Estate. Enclosed is my resume with additional information regarding my work history and leadership experience. I appreciate your consideration, and I look forward to hearing from you in the near future.

Sincerely,

Larry Longhorn

Ms. Melissa Graham
Lead Recruiter
National Bank
P.O. Box 1341
Wimberley, TX 78676

Dear Ms. Graham:

It was a pleasure meeting you at the National Bank information session last night at The University of Texas at Austin. The presentation regarding the bank's focus on consumer lending made me even more interested in the Loan Analyst position posted in the McCombs On-Campus Recruiting System.

I am very impressed by the programs National Bank offered to assist homeowners with refinancing options during the recent housing crisis. As I mentioned at the information session, I am currently taking a real estate class and completed a research project on government loan programs for homeowners facing foreclosure. I am well-informed on the current laws, and I am excited about the possibility of putting this knowledge to use at National Bank.

Thank you again for coming to our campus to discuss the career possibilities at National Bank. I have enclosed my resume for your review. Please contact me if you need additional information regarding my background and qualifications. You may reach me by email, Lucy.Longhorn@bba15.mcombs.utexas.edu, or telephone, (512) 555-5555. I look forward to hearing from you soon.

Dear Mr. Chisholm:

My professor, Dr. Beverly Hadaway, suggested I contact you regarding employment opportunities available at Austin Consulting. I will graduate in May 2016 from The University of Texas at Austin with a Bachelor of Business Administration degree in Finance, and I am interested in a career in the consulting industry. I enjoy problem solving that involves the use of technology.

Maintaining an overall 3.75 GPA while working 25 hours a week is one of my proudest accomplishments in college. Working part-time at the Co-op Bookstore has enabled me to gain valuable customer service and supervisory skills. In addition, I have been actively involved as a Vice President for the University Consulting Group. My responsibilities in this role include planning site visits to consulting firms and bringing in guest speakers for general meetings. My enclosed resume details all of my qualifications for a position with Austin Consulting.

I would like the opportunity to discuss my qualification and interest with you further. Please contact me at your earliest convenience at (512) 555-9999 or at Larry.Longhorn@bba12.mcombs.utexas.edu. Ms. Carolyn Sylvestor
Recruiting Supervisor
Pacific Enterprises, Inc.
2745 Topanga Boulevard
Los Angeles, CA 94005

Dear Ms. Sylvestor:

In December, I am graduating from The University of Texas at Austin with a bachelor's degree in Accounting. I am very interested in the Pacific Enterprises Accountant position posted on the McCombs Job Board. My college work experience and leadership roles have prepared me well for this position.

For the past three years, I have volunteered at the Community Tax Office in Southeast Austin preparing tax returns for low income families. I enjoy the challenge of gathering client information in order to maximize their tax refunds. I have also been recognized for my ability to explain the IRS regulations in simple terms that help clients understand the process.

In addition, I am the Treasurer for my business fraternity, Alpha Kappa Psi. I utilize Excel to track membership dues, external contributions, and the fraternity's expenditures. The total budget I manage for the organization is approximately $100,000. I also present a financial update and corresponding statements to our advisory board on a quarterly basis.

I would appreciate the opportunity to meet with you to discuss how I can contribute to Pacific Enterprises. Please contact me at your earliest convenience at (512) 555-5555 or at Lucy.Longhorn@bba15.mcombs.utexas.edu. Thank you for your consideration.

Thank You Emails

BBA Career Services recommends that you always send thank you emails immediately following an interview or an office visit (within 24 hours). Sending an email ensures your thank you is received in a timely manner. Many students also send thank you emails after meeting an employer at a career fair or an information session as a part of their job search strategy. Be sure to use business language, and do not make your correspondence too friendly or informal. Most employers prefer a succinct and well-written thank you email to a longer and more formal thank you letter. Often, students will send an email and supplement it with a brief, handwritten note mailed later in the week.

Thank You Email Format & Content

Thank you emails are written in a similar format to the cover letter but tend to be less formal. Thank you emails should be brief. Do not elaborate on everything that occurred during the interview but do comment on something significant or add any relevant item that you forgot to address during the interview. In the body of the email, show sincere gratitude and express your interest to the employer.

To Whom to Send the Thank You Email?

Customarily, a separate and unique thank you correspondence is sent to each person with whom you interviewed. This may get a bit complicated after office visits where you met and interviewed (both formally and informally) with numerous individuals. In this case, send thank you correspondence to all those you interviewed with formally. Ask the head or leader of the team to forward your gratitude to others you met casually or briefly.

Thank You Email Tips

- Send a thank you email ASAP (within 24 hours after the interview)
- Personalize the message
- Use single spacing
- Include any additional information forgotten during the interview
- Remind the employer of why they should hire you
- Restate your desire regarding the job
- Double check your spelling, punctuation, and grammar—always proofread
- Don't forget to thank everyone you met, including those who helped coordinate your interview
- Handwrite thank you notes on professional-looking blank cards

Emails/Letters Related to Offers

Confirming an Offer

In some cases, it is a good idea to confirm the offer with the employer by letter or email. If you have only received a verbal offer and are still waiting for the offer in writing, we recommend that you confirm the offer either in your thank you note (following the interview or office visit) or in a separate email or letter directly to the individual who made the offer. Confirm with them the specifics of the offer, including important dates such as your decision date and possible start date.

Accepting an Offer

BBA Career Services recommends that you confirm your acceptance and the specifics of the offer in a letter or email to the employer. In most cases, this is sent immediately following a telephone acceptance call or an in-person meeting where you have decided to work for a specific employer. In your acceptance letter, make certain to note the date that you accepted the offer. Confirm the specifics of your acceptance: the salary, job title, responsibilities and starting date. If your starting date has not yet been confirmed, then note this in the letter along with your anticipated response date. You can then submit the letter with the original signed offer. Always make a copy of your letter and the signed offer for your files. Don't forget to thank them again for the offer. Feel free to show your enthusiasm and interest in starting your new job with the employer.

Declining an Offer and Follow-Up Confirmation

Always call the employer first with your decision, then follow up with a email. The email should always be a follow-up to the phone call (not text message, or any other means of communicating). In the email, be sincere and gracious. Be certain to thank them for their time and the offer. You should be brief and concise. You do not need to give the employer the detailed information about what offer you chose and why.

References

Most likely for on-campus interviews, you will not be asked for a list of references. However, it is always better to be prepared with a typed list of references. Usually, these are requested in the employer's application or during or following the office visit.

Some Helpful Hints in Developing a List of References:

- Typically 3-5 references are sufficient, however, some employers may ask for more or less
- Focus on professional references such as professors, instructors, and former or current supervisors
- Avoid using friends and immediate family as references
- Contact the individuals first and ask if they are willing to serve as positive references
- If you feel it would be relevant to the job or if the employer requests it, then note personal references such as work colleagues, high school teachers, and neighbors who can give the employer an idea of your personal attributes
- Consider sending a copy of your resume to your references for them to review your most recent experiences
- Provide your references with an idea of the type of jobs you are pursuing and which employers may contact them
- Confirm with your references the phone number and address they would like used (home and/or work or email)
- Use good quality paper, preferably paper that matches your resume, cover letter, etc.

Note: It is also a good idea to have your previous employment places, dates, addresses, phone numbers, supervisors, duties, etc. written out and readily available. This will provide you with a resource for completing employment applications. Sometimes you are asked to do this during an interview or office visit.
